Times have changed and educational models too. Today, educational institutions of any kind: universities, schools and training institutions have become able to implement effective learning models through a system of self-regulation, ethical applications and quality certifications. Thanks to that, these institutions may easily reach and even overcome public and traditional schools level. We believe in innovation ability and value production that allow to adopt new educational models.

We certify that the educational institutions' operational process entirely meets the global quality standards implemented by AHQSE.
